

Contents

From the Series Editors ix

Transnational Societies: Organizing Revolution

Erik Ching and José Alfredo Ramírez

El Salvador and the Russian Revolution, 1917–32 3

Ben Curtis

Incorrigible Rebels: The Significance and Influence of the Communist Party in the South Wales Coalfield, 1917–36 33

Sandra McGee Deutsch

“A Labor Filled with Love”:
Communists, Women, and Solidarity in Argentina, 1930–47 59

William Kenefick and Paul Dukes

The Scottish Radical Left in Aberdeen and Dundee:
The Impact of the Great War and Russian Revolution 87

Daniel Kowalsky

Looking Back on Operation X:
Stalin and the Spanish Republic, 1936–39 115

Stuart Macintyre

Revolution from Afar: Communism in Australia 153

Anticolonialism and Soviet Modernity

Jie-Hyun Lim

- Nationalizing the Bolshevik Revolution Transnationally:
Non-Western Modernization among “Proletarian” Nations 177

Afshin Matin-asgari

- The Bolshevik Revolution’s Impact on Iranian Modernity 201

Kristin Mulready-Stone

- The Impact of the Russian Revolution on the Chinese Youth Movement 225

Michael Silvestri

- “Those Dead Heroes Did Not Regret the Sacrifices
They Made”: Responses to the Russian Revolution in Revolutionary Ireland, 1917–23 253

Rianne Subijanto

- Communist Openbare Vergaderingen and an
Indonesian Revolutionary Public Sphere 277

Hari Vasudevan

- India and the October Revolution: Nationalist Revolutionaries,
Bolshevik Power, and “Lord Curzon’s Nightmare” 299

Jeffrey Wasserstrom and Yidi Wu

- The Russian Revolution through Chinese Eyes, 1917–2017 325

Conclusions

Lisa A. Kirschenbaum

Reframing Slavic Studies and the Global Impacts of 1917 345

Glennys Young

Conclusion: Wider Arcs of the Russian Revolution
as Impact, Networks, or ...? 359

Notes on Contributors 379